Greg Mathiason graduated high school with 100 other students and now is a freshman at SUNY Buffalo. He played varsity football and baseball. He is going to college because his parents told him it was necessary if they were going to continue paying his bills. Greg is usually hanging out with friends during his free time, playing video games or sports. Greg's highschool girlfriend is currently attending a different University and he's not taking it too well.

Aside from Greg's 5 undergrad classes, he spends his time on his Galaxy 8 or his new Macbook Air. Greg is usually spending his time on them checking his Facebook, twitter and Instagram accounts. While he should be doing assignments, he's using his tools to keep up on social media and still be the cool jock from High School.

Greg values his video game console, following his sports teams on ESPN (website and app), and working out during peak gym times (to show off his flex).
